Soviet Revolt Likely in Iran

By JAMES E. BROWN

LONDON, March 18 (INS)—Tehran dispatches today pointed to the "very real possibility" of an imminent revolution of pro-Soviet elements in Iran demanding a "clear, unsuspicious policy toward Russia." Despite popular backing of Premier Ahmed Ghavam, the Tudeh party and so-called democratic forces in Azerbaijan province were described as dissatisfied with the premier.

He reportedly refused to accede to Soviet demands for oil and other concessions.

The Tehran government was said to have reinforced road patrols and installed elaborate warning systems as a precaution against possible attempts to score a coup d'etat.

In London, meanwhile, it was considered certain that unless Russia replies to Anglo-American notes inquiring into Soviet intentions in Iran, the entire explosive issue would be referred to the UNO Security Council.

British circles emphasized that the entire Russo-Iranian issue must be settled quickly to open the way for further progress toward the peace and freedom of the world.

Russians Hide News Of 3 Army Columns

TEHRAN, March 18 (AP)—Whereabouts of three Russian combat columns, reported last week fanning out of Tabriz in Azerbaijan toward the Turkish border, Kurdistan along the Iraq frontier and Tehran, was hidden today behind a tight Soviet security curtain.

An American embassy official said "unconfirmed Iranian reports" placed on column at Khoi, north of Lake Urmia, 40 miles from the Turkish frontier.

The second was last reported at Bukan, near the Azerbaijan-Kurdistan border.

Activity of the third column, last reported at Mianeh, was not disclosed.

Russian security regulations at Tabriz, Azerbaijan capital, and at Karaj, a strong Russian post 25 miles north of Tehran, were tightened.

Acheson Takes Grim View of Iran-Red Clash

DETROIT, March 18 (INS)—Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson took a serious view today of the Russian-Iran situation as he discussed foreign affairs in a news conference here in Detroit. He said the Far East situation is "not exaggerated—it is serious," and added:

"Action in Iran may be the prelude to all sorts of other things. It may be the prelude to action in Turkey. It may be the prelude to action over oil-bearing areas . . . which would bring about serious repercussions with Britain and the United States."

Tully Quits State Air Job, Flays Concession Grab

Arthur H. Tully, Jr., resigned today as director of the Massachusetts aeronautical commission for "personal reasons" and, in a letter to Gov. Tobin, charged the public works department and other State agencies with "failure to co-operate."

In his letter, Tully declared aviation still was a "delicate plant" which could be made to grow or could be killed.

"Among the good clean birds of the air," he said, "we have seen here and there of late an occasional beady-eyed vulture, a hovering bird of prey.

A. H. Tully, Jr.

"There is no place in this industry for the political opportunist, the unschooled power grabber, the extortionist of concession profits."

Gov. Tobin declined to comment on this part of Tully's letter, saying it required further explanation. He expressed regret at the resignation, calling Tully a conscientious, competent and cooperative official, but pointed out that under State law, former director Crocker Snow was entitled to resume the post he left to enter the service.

Tully was unavailable for further comment on this portion of his letter due to his absence in Oklahoma to attend a conference of State aviation officials.

He charged further in the letter his efforts to have two airport engineers added to the commission had been blocked by two members, one Chairman Herman MacDonald of the State Public Works Commission and charged that MacDonald's department was one which had not given him "full cooperation."

"If there was any lack of cooperation, it was on the part of Tully," MacDonald declared today when informed of the statement.

"As for the engineers, the commission approved the first one he proposed. I don't know what happened to the second.

"But I did tell him he ought to have these men appear before the board so we could see them and talk to them. I told him he had no authority to pick his own engineers and that they could be approved only by the full board.

"It looks as though Tully is peeved because Crocker Snow, who held the job originally, wouldn't give way to him and say he didn't want it back.

"Snow went to war and was replaced by John Lasell of Northbridge, who also entered the service and has been reported missing in action.

"In other words, Tully was just a military substitute who is peeved because he couldn't hang onto his job."

At the Aeronautic Commission office, Chairman Edward J. Lynch announced Tully's resignation had been accepted as of March 15 and Snow would resume his duties as director on April 1.

Drouth Ahead

CHICAGO, March 18 (INS)—Beer lovers, if you have tears, prepare to shed them—in your mug.

Reason for the beer famine is the government's belt-tightening program which reduced the grain quotas of brewers and distillers 30 per cent for food and conservation purposes.

Pluck Saves Woman 'Crusoe'

Rescued After Being Marooned 14 Days on Island

LOS ANGELES, March 18 (AP)—Physically and mentally exhausted, Mrs. Bernice Brown, Van Nuys, Cal., was rescued by the U. S. Coast Guard yesterday from bleak, uninhabited Anacapa Island, where she was marooned for 14 days after the wreck of a 50-foot fishing boat.

Her husband, 42-year-old Roy Brown, and their friend, John Barta, 38, who sailed with them out of Santa Monica harbor March 2 on a pleasure trip, are believed to have drowned in the mountainous waves that sank their boat, the Nancy Lee.

Mrs. Brown, 43, managed to survive by hanging for hours to a floating gasoline drum.

"We ran into a heavy storm March 3," Mrs. Brown told her rescuers. "Our little boat was whipped around like a feather. Then a huge wave flooded the engine room. With our power off, we had no chance.

"We cast off a small skiff. Barta and I had climbed in when my husband was washed overboard. He managedo to swim to the skiff but it capsize das he reached it. When I came up I managed to swim to the fishing boat, which was now swomped, and got on the bow. But I was washed away as though I was afly. When I came up again, my husband and Barta were gone. I didn't see him again."

Tossed from the tops of giant whitecombs to theq epths of the troughs, Mrs. Brown was strangling with sea water when she floundered to the g as drum. She hung on for nours until, at nightfall, she sa a big rock. With her strength almost gone, she still managed to swim to it and lay there exhausted until the next morning, when she struggled 300 yards to Anacapa island, 13 miles off Point Hueneme.

On Anacapa she might well have expected to starve, for it is not populated, and there is no means of existence. Nevertheless, she found a hut once used by the Navy, which contained precious emergency rations, barrels of rain water, blankets and a battery radio set.

In front of these surprising discoveries Mrs. Brown collapsed, and for three days she was barely able to move enough to feed herself. She had been badly cut and bruised.

Staggering to the beach, she built a signal fire March 8, and kept it lighted until she was rescued. On the radio she was able to keep track of the days.

Her daughter, Mrs. Maxine Trader, did not become alarmed at the absence of her parents, since they had told her they expected to return March 12.

Doctors said Mrs. Brown had recovered amazingly well from deep cuts and that there was no apparent infection. She was almost too weak to talk, however.

South Boston Hails Victors of 3 Wars

Thousands jammed South Boston streets today to cheer 10,000 marchers, including veterans of three wars and survivors of the Bataan death march, in the colorful parade highlighting the Peninsula's annual combined celebration of St. Patrick's Day and Evacuation Day.

At least a half-million spectators were estimated in the throng as the line of march got under way under sunlit skies and in pleasant temperatures for South Boston's first peacetime observance in five years.

The line of march began at Andrew sq. and wended its way through close-packed, jubilant crowds over Dorchester st. to East Fourth st., to G st., to Thomas park, to East Sixth st., to H st., to East Fourth st., to Farragut rd., to East Broadway and West Broadway, disbanding in Dorchester ave.

Spectators were packed five deep all along the route and thousands of children, many of them in the arms of their parents, were in the throng. Others sought vantage points on rooftops and in windows.

Former Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., rode in a car near the head of the parade while U. S. Sen. Saltonstall marched on foot at the head of the Michael J. Perkins Post, A. L., South Boston.

Also on foot and displaying a huge green carnation in his lapel was Gov. Tobin walking at the head of a State Guard contingent.

At East Fourth and Eighth sts. the governor, escorted by a delegation of legislators headed by Rep. John T. Padden of Hyde Park, was booed by a group of spectators but others quickly drowned out the sour note with applause and cheers.

But the loudest cheers of the throng were for Mayor Curley, who rode with his wife and daughter, Mary, in an open car driven by his son, George, recently discharged Navy lieutenant.

Seated by George in the car was Edward "Knocko" McCormack, brother of Cong. McCormack, garbed in a sky blue uniform with white beret.

At one point in the parade, 7-year-old Marie Cassidy ran to the curley car and presented the occupants with a bouquet. Other spectators along the line of march were asking, "Where's Curley?" long before his car arrived.

The Governor, Mayor and other dignitaries left the parade at designated spots and climbed to stands to review the marchers.

Heading the parade were the Chief Marshal, Capt. Edward L. Hopkins, a World War II veteran, and his staff and close behind them came the small group which drew wild cheers from the crowd —the survivors of the Bataan death march.

Others in the ranks included gray-haired Spanish War veterans, middle-aged veterans of World War I and the youthful veterans of World War II who only a year ago were fighting Nazi and Jap on European and far-flung Pacific battle fronts.

Also in the line of march were contingents from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard as well as uniformed members of veteran organizations and representatives of various civic, fraternal and patriotic groups.

Music from some 30 bands and drum and bugle corps provided martial and Irish airs for the marchers. Police assigned 300 extra officers to handle the throng.

Prior to the parade, city councilors and legislators were guests of Councilor Joseph M. Scannell at luncheon at the Old Harbor House.

Capt. Hopkins laid a wreath at the base of the monument as the ceremonies were completed.

Rep. John Powers of South Boston opened the day's ceremonies at Dorchester Heights during the annual flag raising and ceremonies.

Find Missing Heiress, 16, With Man, 24

DETROIT, March 18 (INS)—Sixteen-year-old Suzanne Froedtert of Milwaukee, heiress to one of the world's largest malt and milling fortunes, was found in a Detroit suburb today, working for $23 a week.

The pretty blonde was being sought by the FBI in four states since last Monday when she left exclusive Edgewood Academy in Madison, Wis.

Suzanne told Highland Park detectives she was "tired of living at home and wanted to get out on her own."

The teen-aged heiress, tall, with an upswept hair style, was found in a modest furnished flat with 24-year-old Oolie J. Williams of Madison, Wis. Williams, a nice-appearing slender youth, told police he was unemployed. He said he met the girl on a bus travelling from Madison.

Suzanne was employed by a Highland Park candy firm as a conveyor belt attendant. Company officials said she obtained employment as "Mrs. Williams." She obtained a social security card on Friday under the name of Muer.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtis Froedtert, were wintering in Miami Beach when Suzanne disappeared from school.

200 Flee $5000 Fire In East Boston Plant

More than 200 employes, mostly women, fled to safety today when fire, believed caused by a spark from a lathe wheel, swept through the Roslinoid Manufacturing Co.'s factory on Saratoga st., East Boston.. The majority of the women were working on the second floor of the two-story brick structure when the fire started. They filed in an orderly manner down two fire escapes.

James Venedam, 25, Grady ct., East Boston, was burned on the hands and face while attempting to smother the flames, which he told police started at the bench where he and 15 other employes were working.

Two girls fainted after reaching the street, and a third, Tina Picadacci, 19, of Charter st., North End, received an injured ankle while coming out of the building.

Dist. Fire Chief John J. Ainsworth estimated damage to the building at $5000.

Once safely out on the street, the women employes milled about police and firemen, demanding that their pocketbooks and street shoes be rescued. Firemen returned to the building and brought out the purses.

Medford Stabber Of 2 Boys Insane

Richard Emerson Stearns, 15-year-old, 6 foot 2 Medford High School honor freshman, who was indicted on two counts of assault with intent to murder and two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon, last January, after two small boys reported he had stabbed them, has been pronounced insane.

Stearns was committed to the Metropolitan State Hospital, Feb. 8, for 35 days of observation.

He was not present when his case was called today in Middlesex Superior Court. Dist. Atty. Thompson told Judge Buttrick hospital authorities had found the 178-pound "model" youth to be insane. They had been confirmed in their diagnoses by two psychiatrists from the State department of mental diseases, Thompson said.

Judge Buttrick ordered Stearns committed to Bridgewater.

Stearns had been indicted for the stabbing of Francis Piscitello, 7, Thatcher st., and Bartley W. Glaven, 6, Thatcher st., both of Medford. They said he had lured them to a vacant house and stabbed them with an ice pick.

Medford police quoted Stearns as confessing after his arrest he had experienced "an urge to kill."

Vet Hero Steals Spotlight

Fomer Sgt. Charles A. MacGillivray, Congressional Medal of Honor hero and only South Bostonian to emerge from World War II with that distinction, stole the spotlight at the annual Evacuation Day parade this afternoon, even though he wasn't allowed to lead the procession as chief marshal.

MacGillivray, who lost the parade leadership to Capt. Edward L. Hopkins, set up his own reviewing stand at Old Colony blvd. and Dorchester st., a strategy which brought the marchers past him before they reached the official reviewing stand in Broadway.

Seated with the Medal of Honor man were other veterans who had distinguished themselves in one way or another, including Michael Hurley, past commander of the Fitzgerald Post, VFW; Sgt. Harold Epstein, VFW deputy color sergeant and Sgt. Joseph Horan, hero of Bataan.

MacGillivray was the most saluted man in South Boston as the parade passed before him. Marshal Hopkins threw him a brisk one. Gov. Tobin halted his car and went over to shake hands. Former Sen. Lodge greeted him. ayor Curley pressed flowers upon him. State Treasurer John Hurley and other dignitaries waved.

According to military precedent, every military man in the parade, whatever his rank, saluted MacGillivray in deference to the Medal of Honor hung around his neck.

Rebel Teachers To Face Norton

Charges that School Committee Chairman Clement A. Norton had urged teachers to present their grievances to the committee and then had voted against them when the matters were brought before the board were made today by spokesmen for Boston's rebellious school teachers.

It was also claimed that complaints presented to the committee last September were not even considered by the committee until January of this year, and that the school board then was dominated by Norton, who prevailed on a majority of his fellow members to reject them.

Norton was singled out last week-end by the teachers as the member responsible for "political interferences" in classrooms, as charged earlier last week in the "Teachers Voice," a publication of English High School teachers.

Among grievances presented to the committee at Norton's solicitation last September were the request for three days' sick leave before teachers went on half-pay and for selection of vocational guidance counselors in schools by competitive examination instead of by appointment by headmasters.

"Norton expressed sympathy for our sick-leave proposal before it was presented to the committee," the spokesman said. "Then at the committeee meeting he claimed the teachers were trying to run the schools and tell the committee how it should conduct school affairs. He urged the committee to disregard our petition and voted against it himself. His actions are unpredictable."

The 10 English High school teachers responsible for the article criticising school conditions will attend tomorrow's meeting of the school committee and defend their stand, the spokesman declared.

He said they were prepared to prove each and every charge they had made against Norton, who has labeled the attacks on him as the work of a disgruntled teacher who failed of promotion.

Leading figures in the growing unrest among teachers spent the day today lining up supporters for their solution reprimanding the school committee for causing "dangerously low morale" among teachers.

John H. Buckley, head of the Boston Schoolmen's Economic Ass'n, which sponsored last Saturday's meeting at which the resolution was drawn, declared today there was no split in the ranks of the teachers despite reports that three of the 49 teacher organizations would not go along with the resolution.

"In spite of reports to the contrary," he said, "the men and women teachers are united in their opinion that the morale of teachers is dangerously low.

"They will appear at tomorrow's school committee hearing in large numbers to prove conclusively that the teachers are convinced that a much needed improvement in the status of classroom teachers is necessary if their morale is not to disappear entirely."

Warns of Racket In CIO Aid Bill

Opposing a CIO recommendation that workmen's compensation laws be liberalized to include payment of legal fees and medical testimony for claimants, Mrs. Emma S. Toussant, chairman of the industrial accident board, today warned legislators it might invite "rackets."

She spoke at a hearing by the labor and industries committee on proposed amendments.

George F. Markham, legislative agent for the CIO, held that inclusion of medical and legal fees would "reassure the worker that everything is being done for his welfare and justice."

Mrs. Toussant countered with the statement her board gives "a better break" to workers who appear without attorneys.

Jarvis Hunt, counsel for the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, also opposed the liberalization. He said it would "stir up litigation and go a long way toward legalized barratry."

Sea Epic Baby Taken by Death

By JACK McLEAN and JOHN HICKEY

The tragic account of a baby's birth at sea under difficult circumstances and how desperate attempts to save its life, including a mercy dash of a Coast Guard patrol plane off Nantucket with oxygen tanks, ended in the infant's death, was told today in New York.

In a telephone hookup from the lobby of the Queen Mary to the Boston American, a ship's officer told how doctors fought to keep alive the infant, who was born prematurely.

He identified the mother as Mrs. Pauline Edith Smith, 23, of Manchester, England, wife of Sgt. Russell Dow Smith of Coventry, Vt.

They were married in England May 17, 1943, and the English girl was crossing the ocean to join her husband at the time of the ill-fated birth.

When it became clear that only oxygen in large amounts might save the child's life, a huge Martin Mariner seaplane took off from the Coast Guard air station in Salem and landed at sea in a pre-arranged rendezvous with the liner.

It was 5:45 p. m. when the big Coast Guard air-sea rescue plane alighted on the water. Col. William R. Barnett, commander of the Queen Mary, had radioed an emergency appeal for oxygen to the New York port of embarkation.

The plea was relayed to Salem. Now, only a few hours after the sea-to-shore message had been sent, the plane was bobbing up and down at the rendezvous, eight tanks of oxygen aboard, while scores of British brides and other passengers aboard the luxury ship watched the dramatic transfer of the plane's precious cargo.

The Queen Mary's skipper ordered a boat lowered. Its 12 crewmen had a bad time of it with the seas for a while but finally made the lee of the plane and took aboard the oxygen.

This was modern rescue work, made possible by the most modern equipment—but the Queen Mary, for all her sea-going prestige, had not been equipped to meet a maternity crisis like this one. The lack, nevertheless, did not daunt an ingenious sergeant or Capt. Carl Glienke, the ship's surgeon, or the ship's carpenter.

Glienke said they would need an incubator—quick. He was given one—quick.

It was ready when the oxygen tanks came aboard. A special "operation" room was prepared.

Sgt. Robert R. Copeland, with the aid of the ship's carpenter improvised an incubator from a wooden case which they lined with rubber sheeting. Through a six-inch square window of X-ray film, a rubber tube was inserted, attached to a glass funnel which served as an oxygen mask.

An electric bulb and hot water bottles were installed to provide heat, and a thermometer was inserted through a hole in the side to insure a constant temperature.

Less than four hours later Mrs. Smith gave birth to a boy weighing approximately three pounds. For a while medical men aboard held hope he might survive. He showed progress in the improvised oxygen tent. Then, nine hours after birth, and despite all that could be done for him, he died.

It was a brief life span for Leigh Travis Smith. He had been christened by and named after Maj. Leigh O. Wright, Army chaplain, soon after birth.

The baby's father, who had not known of the birth and death of his son until he arrived at the pier in New York this morning, went aboard the liner to join his wife. He was to accompany her to Ft. Hamilton.

Bluebeard on Trial For Slaying of 63

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—Dr. Marcel Petiot went on trial for murder in the heavily guarded Palais de Justice today after a prison warden quoted the defendant as saying he would demand a mental examination be given any magistrate who ordered one for him.

Cheerfully, Petiot continued to maintain he had "executed" 63 collaborators with the aid of a resistance group. The state said only 27 slain persons had been identified definitely, and the victims were not discovered to have been collaborators.

Today's trial session was devoted largely to drawing a jury. The big Paris assizes courtroom was packed. Squadrons of guards were posted at every gateway, a display of force unseen since Laval's collaboration trial last fall.

Petiot was reported to have avidly read French newspaper accounts of the case comparing him to Bluebeard. The prison warden quoted him as saying:

"Speak of the scandals of the Laval trial; mine will be something else again. I can promise you there will be plenty of fun."

The 55-year-old physician is accused of luring his alleged victims to his home, a large house behind a 20-foot wall, with promises of helping them to escape from Nazi-occupied France for a fee.

Human remains, including partially burned limbs and bodies contorted in a lime pit, were found by police summoned two years ago.

Gloria's Ma Won't Sue Over Lost Allowance

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1946, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, whose daughter, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt De Cicco Stokowski, heiress to more than $4,000,000, surprised everyone by refusing to continue her mother's allowance, will not take the case to court. This announcement was made despite all rumors to the contrary. Today Lady Thelma Furness, twin of Mrs. Vanderbilt, told this writer: "My sister is very, very sick and we are all greatly concerned over her health. She could never face the ordeal of a court action again, nor would she do it.

"It is totally untrue that she ever had any intention of suing Leopold Stokowski, my niece's husband, for alienation of Gloria's affections. "She hasn't eaten nor slept since my niece dealt her that cruel and unexpected blow. We were in Europe when we received word Mrs. Stokowski had decided to give the money she had been sending her mother to a fund for needy children.

Lady Furness

"It wasn't loss of the money that hurt Mrs. Vanderbilt. It was her daughter's statement she had been neglected by her mother.

"The only reason my sister ever went into court when Gloria was a child was because she wanted a daughter. Gloria begged her time and again to come to California and live with her. She wrote her long and affectionate letters.

"We can only feel she must have been influenced to have taken such a drastic step.

"I only hope she will never live to regret it, because her mother is very sick."

At the time Gloria advised her mother to go to work, she added the suggestion Mrs. Vanderbilt take a job as librarian, though she knew her mother had had no experience in that field.

As for the offer from Roy Del Ruth to assume a role in his newest picture and also act as technical advisor for the society scenes, it is very doubtful Mrs. Vanderbilt would be well enough to accept the offer. However, as soon as she is able to travel, she will return to Hollywood.

Lady Furness, just returned from Europe, was house guest over the week-end at the Santa Barbara home of the Eddie Hillmans.

Edmund Lowe, film actor, was also a guest. He is giving a party in honor of Lady Furness Friday night.

This bears out my story that Ann Post's announcement of her engagement to Lowe was decidedly premature.

Fatal Malden Fire Sole Survivor

Rites Tomorrow For 5 Malden Fire Victims

The funeral of a husband, wife and three children, victims of a blaze which swept a Blue Hill ave., Malden, bungalow, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Ward funeral home in Maple st., Malden, with the Rev. Carle Olson officiating. Burial will be in Forest Dale Cemetery.

Flames, which broke out in wiring in a playroom, took the lives of Arthur Eric Veholm, 35, a sign painter, his wife, Mrs. Marion Brough Veholm; their 5-month-old son, Gail, and two children of Mrs. Veholm by a previous marriage, Barbara Brough, 8, and Patricia Brough, 5. Lone survivor of the tragedy was George Brough, 10.

An offer to care for young George came speedily from Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan, the famed founder of Nebraska's model community Boystown. Msgr. Flanagan wired John F. Cronin, trustee of the Malden Lodge of Elks, that George would be welcome there and that his traveling expenses would be forwarded if he wished to go. The boy is staying temporarily with family friends in Melrose.

The fire made rapid progress and apparently mushroomed through the bungalow and turned the dwelling into an inferno, fire department investigators said.

Spreading through the house just before dawn, the fire evidently suffocated all members of the family except George, who was awakened in time and fled to safety.

"When I woke up, fire was everywhere," George said later. "I tried to wake up the rest, but there was too much fire and smoke so I ran out the back door.

"Then I heard Barbie (his sister) scream. I broke a window to her room and yelled, 'Come on, Barbie,' but she didn't answer.

Attack on Lame Cambridge Girl Jails Man for 20 Years

Climaxing a two-year search, Pvt. Patrick Dunne, 34, of Weston, today in Middlesex Superior Court pleaded guilty to criminal assault on a crippled 20-year-old Cambridge girl and was sentenced to State Prison for 20 years. The prisoner bowed his head as Dist. Atty. George E. Thompson termed the assault the most brutal he ever had prosecuted, declaring the victim was lured to Weston on the pretext that Dunne knew how to cure her arthritis. Instead, she was kept in the open all night and attacked four times.

Dunne was brought here from the U. S. prison barracks at Green Haven, N. Y., after a long search by Insp. James Conniff of the district attorney's office.

Dunne was tracked down by Conniff through pictures discovered in Weston and identified by his victim. He was traced to the Green Haven barracks last April, where he admitted the attacks.

But a few days before being brought here for trial Dunne escaped and was not captured until recently in Cincinnati. He now has been sentenced by the Army to serve a five-year term and his Massachusetts sentence will not begin until expiration of his Army sentence.

Petition to Urge UNO Rule Atom

HANOVER, N. H., March 18 (AP)—A petition to President Truman and Congress calling for an emergency program for United Nations control of the atomic bomb will be launched nationally tomorrow night at a meeting in Dartmouth hall, it was announced today.

The petition was written by Lewis Mumford of Hanover, whose articles on the atomic bomb have attracted wide attention, in consultation with Dartmouth faculty members and others. It calls for:

1—Readiness of the United States to submit, with other countries, to a complete system of inspection and measures for control of the atomic bomb.

2—Agreement of the United States to stop manufacturing atomic bombs.

3—Dismantling of bombs already manufactured and placing materials under United Nations guard in this country.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Harrison Scott Brown, a nuclear chemist from the Oak Ridge laboratories.

Baruch Picked for A-Bomb Group

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—President Truman is nominating Bernard M. Baruch as United States representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission.

Baruch, 75, one of the nation's elder statesmen, was chairman of the War Industries Board during the first World War.

Meantime, in the House, demand was made for an immediate investigation of the practical use of atomic energy in the generation of electricity.

Rep. Havenner (D.) of California introduced a resolution to authorize the federal power commission to make a study and said this would show the world "we intend to use atomic energy for purposes of peace and human advancement and not for war and human destruction."

"I WAS IN A SHOP IN BETHLEHEM, JUDEA"

Below is one of those unsolicited letters that speaks for itself. Sent in by a banker in a nearby suburban town bank after he had heard a recent Filene's Basement Tel-e-test broadcast.

JAN., '46

Dear Sir:—

While listening to your Broadcast this morning you made a statement that probably is more truthful than even you realize viz: "Filene's Basement is known all over the World."

I cannot answer for the whole world, but in 1931 I was in Bethlehem (of Judea) in a novelty shop opposite the Church of the Nativity looking for a suitable souvenir for a friend. I was impressed by the correctness of the English of the Clerk and asked: "Have you ever been in the States?" He replied, "Sure." I said, "Whereabouts?" He said, "Boston. I used to work in Filene's Basement." That was sufficient identification for me. I pass this along for what it is worth. It is one of those human interest stories that has the advantage of being true.

Thanks for your letter Mr. ....., it's like the one we recently had from South America emphasizing our universal fame, as it were.

Only recently we sent a fur coat to China — some wearables to Greece and Norway—not long ago we had a visitor from Turkey and only recently some folks came from nearly 10,000 miles away to shop here—(and we'll be telling you about them soon). Yes, Filene's Basement is a unique store, only ONE of its kind in the world famous and what makes us happier it has a world of friends and we're always mighty glad to hear from them.

Doolittle Forbade Bombing Of Mikado, Flier Testifies

By RICHARD CUSHING

SHANGHAI, March 18 (AP)—The Doolittle raiders cut cards aboard the carrier Hornet for the right to bomb the Emperor's palace but were ordered to stick to military targets, a raid survivor testified today in a war crimes trial.

Capt. Chase J. Nielsen of Hiram, Utah, first prosecution witness in the trial of four officers charged with executing three Doolittle raiders, described in detail the story of the first bombing of Japan. He said the fliers, all volunteers, were briefed daily aboard the Hornet during the 18-day run to the take-off and were given definite instructions to bomb nothing but prescribed military targets.

"We all wanted to bomb the palace," Neilsen, a navigator, said, "but Doolittle told us definitely to leave the palace unharmed."

Nielsen testified the machine guns of his plane were never fired.

The Japanese in conducting mock court martial for eight captured Doolittle flyers charged they bombed and strafed school children, churches, hospitals and for such "indiscriminate" bombing they were sentenced to death under the "enemy airmen's law" promulgated by the war ministry a few weeks after the raid.

Five of the Americans later were reprieved on orders from Tokyo but three—two pilots and a machine gunner—were shot to death in Shanghai cemetery, Oct. 16, 1942.

The victims were Lt. Deane Mallmark of Dallas, Tex.; Lt. William G. Farrow of Darlington, S. C., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz of Ledo, Kan.

The four defendants sat stony-faced near defense counsel, which consists of two Americans and three Japanese, one from Tokyo. The accused are Lt. Gen. Shugeru Sawada, former commander of the Jap 13th army; Capt. Sotojuro Natsuta, commandant of Kiangwan military prison where the Americans were held, and two members of the court martial, Capt. Kusei Wako and Lt. Ryuhei Okada.

Man, 80, Keeps 49th Grave Tryst

READING, Pa., March 18 (AP) —As the hands of the clock on St. Mary's Polish Catholic Church reached midnight, Alvah O. Schaeffer, 80, completed his 49th annual St. Patrick's day tryst at the grave of Tom Hannahoe, "the mayor of Irishtown."

Schaeffer and Hannahoe made a verbal pledge in 1897 that whichever one outlived the other would perform a service at the other's grave on St. Patrick's day at midnight.

Standing beside the grave of his friend, Schaeffer bowed his head in reverence as a quartet of musicians played the deceased's favorite tunes, "Lass of Galway" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Political Medicine Is Bad Medicine For You

The cards are now "face upon the table." The final "showdown" on Political Medicine is at hand. It would establish, with the authority provided, the Federal Security Administrator as a Medical Dictator in the United States. He would be clothed with the power and saddled with the responsibility to provide medical, dental, nursing and laboratory care and hospitalization for every man, woman and child in this country. The Surgeon General of the Public Health Service is designated as the administrative officer.

The enactment of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill into law would destroy the private practice of medicine in the United States. Practically it would make all expectant mothers, all mothers, and all children to the age of twenty-one, wards of the "State." Enactment of this legislation would place the expenditure of more than FOUR BILLION DOLLARS annually in the hands of one man —the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service with the approval of the Federal Security Administrator. This would cost the average family about $120.00 yearly extra payroll taxes. THIS IS SOCIALIZED MEDICINE WITH A VENGEANCE . . . POLITICAL DISTRIBUTION OF ALL MEDICAL SERVICE.

It would entail the most vicious and dangerous aspects of Socialized Medicine. It is estimated that 300,000 bureaucrats would be necessary to administer the system. It would establish machinery for the Political Distribution of Medical Care.

The concept is strictly totalitarian. The mechanisms, if adopted and placed in operation, would establish a core of collectivist control under which Freedom of Enterprise in any form could not long survive.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has given these proposals his blessing. An unusual crisis of great peril is at hand.

Every person—worker, merchant, doctor, lawyer, businessman—who desires to keep the deadening hand of politics out of the sick room should protest against the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill (S 1606 - H. R. 4730). All of those really interested in preserving our American Way of Life should register definite and vigorous opposition with their Congressmen and Senators. Write or telegraph your protest to them TODAY. Literature containing complete information regarding the dangers of political medicine can be obtained FREE by writing to GEORGE PATTON AND STAFF, 16 ARLINGTON ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Anaesthetic Combination Found for Lung Surgery

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18 (AP)—A combination of anaesthetics, which for the first time permits surgeons to use the electric knife in chest operations, was announced today by Dr. Phyllis Harroun and Dr. F. E. Beckert of the University of California Medical School.

The combination consists of nitrous oxide or laughing gas, commonly used in tooth extractions, and curare, a powerful poison originally utilized by South American Indians to make their arrow-tips more deadly.

Reporting in Anaesthesia, a medical journal, Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert explained the laughing gas puts the patient to sleep and curare paralyzes the breathing muscles, which must be immobilized during chest surgery.

Neither curare nor nitrous oxide is explosive. That eliminates the danger the tiny sparks from the electric knife will cause an explosion in the lungs.

Ordinary anaesthetics, such as ether and cyclopropane, are potent enough to put the patient to sleep and paralyze chest muscles, but are highly explosive.

Hannegan's Brother Charged With Attack

Wife Cites Rival In British Isles

The bridegrom she relinquished to the Army a few months after their 1941 marriage came home in 1944 to tell her he had fallen in love with an English girl and had fathered a child by her, Mrs. Rita Elaine Burke, 25, of Prospect st., Newburyport, testified in Salem probate court today.

Jdge John A. Costello took under advisement her uncontested petition for a divorce from Clifford J. Burke and the right to resume her maiden name of Pauley.

Mrs. Burke, attractive with auburn hair, told the court her husband said he intended to bring the English girl and baby to this country.

Also taken under advisement was the divorce petition of Mrs. Elaine Hoffman, 27, of New Ocean st., Swampscott, who complained her husband, Vernon, had deserted her five days after their wedding in 1940.

"He just packed up and said he'd had enough of marriage," she testified.

Urges State Ban Medical School

Sen. Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge today called on the legislative committee on education to approve legislation to revoke the license of the Middlesex Medical School, Waltham.

Rowe, author of the measure, declared "the operation of an unapproved school comes pretty close to being a fraud, because its graduates cannot get licenses to practice in Massachusetts."

He told a public hearing Middlesex college has been unable to get approval because of lack of funds, lack of a full faculty and of clinical facilities.

Isadore Muchnick, Boston city councilor, appearing for the school, obtained a continuance to April 4 to allow the school to present its case.

Goering Denies Any Disloyalty to Hitler

NUERNBERG, Germany, March 18 (AP)—Hermann Goering defiantly told the International Military Tribunal today he never was disloyal to Hitler. If the dictator had been assassinated, Goering said, he would have taken control of Germany and fought the war to a bitter end.

He testified the Nazis never considered offensive action against North or South America.

Goering had been asked whether he sought to prolong the war after he realized it was lost and also about Hitler's political will, accusing Goering of disloyalty, secret overtures to German enemies and attemptinng to seize power.

"I neither betrayed Hitler nor in that period negotiated with even one foreign soldier," said the chief among the 22 ranking Nazis on trial.

"This document (Hitler's will) rests on an unfortunate mistake.

Goering asserted Hitler got his idea of attempted overtures through a "mistake in transmission" of a message between the Vatican and Berlin. He did not amplify his claim.

Goering's testimony contrasted sharply with efforts of most of the other defendants to show they secretly opposed Hitler and attempted to overthrow him.

When Justice Jackson suggested the end of the war could have been hastened by killing Hitler, Goering declared:

"The assassination of Hitler would have brought about my succession. If the opposition had given me the same answer—unconditional surrender and all that was hinted—I would have continued fighting under all circumstances."

Goering said he considered the war hopeless in January, 1945, after the Russians broke through at the Oder and the German offensive in the Ardennes failed.

Asked why V-bombs were used after the war was considered lost, Goering asserted:

"As a soldier I could only regret we did not have enough of these V-weapons because that was the only weapon to bring about the easing of attacks on our cities."

He denied he ever said he set the Reichstag on fire.

He testified Hitler "did not believe in the beginning America would intervene in the war and through the attitude of the isolationist press, he was strengthened in that belief. On the other hand I was convinced the Americans would, under any and all circumstances, enter the war."

U. S.-Backed Korean Leader Resigns

SEOUL, March 18 (AP)—Dr. Syngman Rhee, who came out of 27 years of exile to work for Korean independence, announced today his decision to resign because of ill health as chairman of the American-supported representative Democratic Council of South Korea.

Rhee was the target last week of the Russian newspaper Pravda, which charged he headed a Korean group seeking to grab governmental power.

New Uncle Sam

GLENDALE, Cal., March 18 (AP)—The East Glendale War Wives Ass'n think Uncle Sam needs a shave to go with this atomic age.

Spurred by its president, Mrs. Edward H. McDonnell's remark, "He now looks like he has a touch of vaudeville about him," the association suggested the new Uncle Sam:

Be clean shaven; have the white hair of Edward Stettinius; Booth Tarkington's intelligent forehead; Connie Mack's genial, humorous nose; Gen. Eisenhower's strong smile, and Bernard Baruch's go-getter chin.

Coal Mines Offer 4-Point Program

WASHINGTON, March 18 (INS)—Bituminous mine owners outlined a four-point program today for a new soft coal wage agreement, including a guarantee by the United Mine Workers against "wildcat strikes."

The operators' proposal was presented as the national soft coal wage parley entered its second week. They were:

Guarantee by union against wildcat strikes and slowdowns in production; re-definition of qualifications for vacation pay; elimination of pay for lunch periods; substitution of eight hours for seven hours, and 40 hours for 35 hours, as the point at which overtime payment begins.

Anzio Leader Raps Gen. Clark

WASHINGTON, March 18 (INS)—The commanding general of the 36th Division told the House Military Committee today the costly Rapido river assault did not assist the Anzio Beach landing to "any material degree."

General Mark W. Clark was the U. S. commander who ordered the maneuver.

Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, who led the division during the Rapido river attack, told the committee in addition:

"Attacks by the 36th at the Rapido were failures because of poor tactical judgment in carrying out the instructions received from Gen. Alexander and that the operation, because of poor tactical judgment, resulted in unnecessary loss of life."

Gen. Walker appeared with other officers of the 36th Division Association to press their demands for a congressional investigation of the assault which cost more than 2000 casualties in two nights.

Brother of Slain Woman Kills Self

MINNEAPOLIS, March 18 (AP)—The nude body of a young woman who the coroner said had been beaten and strangled was found on the Mississippi river bank, and Inspector Eugene Bernath said the woman's brother killed himself in front of police headquarters a few hours later while being taken there for questioning.

Bernath identified the woman as Mrs. Dorothy Hickman, 23, mother of two small children, and her brother as Gordon Lalonde, 27.

Police said Lalonde earlier had given a statement that he and his sister had been drinking and may have quarreled.

Deb's Debut at Ritz

JUDITH TINGLEY-FOOR, the deb with the unusual name, will make her debut Saturday at a tea at the Ritz Carlton. One of this season's popular debutantes, she is a freshman at Wellesley College and was president of the graduating class at Beaver Country Day last year.

Her name is a combination of the last names of the two attractive and cultured ladies who adopted her many years ago, Miss Gertrude Tingley, well known singing teacher, and Miss Mary B. Foor, of Milton rd., Brookline. They will be hostesses at the party.

Ann Clarke

Judith's head pourer will be Cynthia Rugg and the other attractive debs taking turns at the tea tables will be Katharine Montgomery, Joanne Livermore, Katharine MacDuffie, Betsy Bird, Joan Danner, Lavinia Chase and Barbara Weil, one of Judith's classmates at Wellesley.

NOTES FROM A SOCIETY EDITOR'S CUFF: Back home from England where she was a Red Cross staff assistant for several years, Virginia Ellis, one of the Bay State's top ranking feminine tennis players, is keeping busy by working in socialite Hamilton Osgood's bicycle shop which specializes in English bikes and accessories.

GLAMOROUS ANN CLARKE of Brookline, wearing black with choker pearls and a sable scarf, was squired by Larry Morgan at the Ritz Bar the other evening. Also in the five o'clock crowd at the Ritz were Mimi and Ben Blake celebrating his release from the Army and new work in an architect's office. Mimi had the unusual experience of being married without changing her name. She was born a Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blake of Dedham. Her husband's parents are the Benjamin Blakes of Weston. For the cocktail hour she wore a slim black dress, very jaunty black velvet beret and white gloves.

SINCE HIS RELEASE from the Navy George W. Hall Smith, Jr., husband of the former Susan Plummer, has collected his oils, brushes and easels and commenced working seriously toward his goal of becoming a famous portrait painter. In a studio on Lime st. he has already painted remarkable likenesses of his wife's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fellowes Davis; of Lucy Aldrich Devens, a recent bride, and of Mary Seymour. George and Sue have a young son and a six-weeks-old daughter. They plan to spend the summer at the seashore in Rhode Island where his family have an estate.

WINTER-WEARY Bostonians are having a prevue of spring this week at the Diamond Jubilee Flower Show in Mechanics Building. A far cry from the first show of the Mass. AN INJUSTICE TO VETERANS

UNTHINKABLE as it is that Americans should be penalized for fighting for their country, the millions of men and women who served in the armed forces in World War II have BEEN penalized in their Social Security benefits.

Under present provisions of the law, they will receive LESS old-age pension when they attain the age of 65 than if they had stayed home and worked at civilian jobs covered by the Social Security system.

The amount of pension to be paid depends on what proportion of his years between the ages of 21 and 65 the worker spends in covered employment.

The years spent in military service must be figured into that calculation as non-work years, AND THUS THEY REDUCE THE PENSION.

Moreover, many thousands of fighting men who had established Social Security protection for their wives and children before the war FORFEITED those benefits, wholly or partially, by serving in the armed forces.

When men to whom that had happened were killed, or died in the service, their widows and children found themselves either with greatly reduced benefits from the Social Security system or with NO BENEFITS AT ALL, depending on the length of time the husband and father had been in service before his death.

THIS SHOCKING and cruel situation comes about through the legal requirement that a man must have been "fully insured" under the Social Security system if his survivors are to receive anything.

And in order to be "fully insured" the worker must have been employed at a covered job for half of his adult years since Jan. 1, 1937, when the system went into effect, or, if he attained the age of 21 after that date, he must at least have worked half of the three years immediately preceding his death.

Thus the widows and children of men who served their country before their deaths for a longer period than they had worked in civilian life receive NOTHING for their support from the Social Security system.

Survivors of those who died after serving LESS time than they had been on the Social Security rolls receive benefits DIMINISHED by each month of the man's military service, since the benefits are calculated on the ratio between the periods spent working in a covered industry and those spent NOT working in such an industry.

Surviving veterans who served in the armed forces longer than they worked under Social Security coverage now have NO protection for their families.

They must work eighteen months before they begin to acquire any, under the Social Security regulations.

The same rule applies to those who, entering the armed forces directly from school, had never worked and therefore had no Social Security standing.

They, too, must work eighteen months before they establish any protection for their families.

But others of the same approximate age group who remained at home and worked in war plants have been steadily accumulating Social Security protection for their families and for their own old age.

TO END this unjust and ungrateful discrimination against war veterans will require a change in the Social Security law.

Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart of California has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill designed to effect it.

Rep. Gearhart's measure would provide veterans with old age and survivor benefits based on an assumed earning of $160 per month for the term of their military service.

Congress should pass the bill without delay.

Meanwhile, the various State legislatures, including our own, should strive to do more for the veterans.

There are millions of acres of land which could be given them for home sites and small farms.

MANY SCOTS don't like the idea of Bing Crosby portraying Robert Burns in a film and are bombarding the newspapers in Scotland and London with letters of protest. However, none of the Scots protesting states what actor he thinks should characterize his beloved Bobbie. Who would be your choice? How about Robert Donat? Or Cornel Wilde?

POOR FISH: "My birthday is March 20. I am 31 years old," writes a feminine subscriber of San Francisco. "In all my long life I have never heard a good word said for Pisces women. Is there nothing to be said in praise of us poor fishes?" (Note —The stargazers are agreed that Pisces women have considerable personal magnetism, make good friends and sweethearts and remain young in spirit and looks even when reaching an advanced age. Lillie Langtry was born under the sign of Pisces. So was Elizabeth Barrett Brownnig.)

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Observed Lady Astor: "We women talk too much but even then we don't tell half we know" . . . Ever hear of Joshua Pusey? If not, keep his name in mind. He is the inventor of the book match of which two hundred billion books a year are sold in this country . . . Add to tales my grandfather told me: "O'Hara said to Reilly, 'Why do you carry that rabbit's foot in your pocket?' Reilly answered, 'For luck. Every time my wife puts her hands in my pockets she thinks it's a mouse.'"

PASSING BY: Frank Sinatra, Bobby-sockers' heart throb No. 3. Van Johnson is now No. 1. Gregory Peck, No. 2. Sinatra is going to London this summer to sing at Albert Hall . . . William Helis, The fabulous Greek from New Orleans, He paid $60,000 for a yearling race horse which he later named Pericles. He has yet to send this noble animal to the post. I believe Pericles is now four years old. However, he could still prove a wonder horse. Some years ago a horse named Chase Me made his first start at the age of five and proved a sensation. He never lost a race.

STILL ARGUING: The argument as to what female has the most beautiful legs in the Hollywood film colony continues. It is now claimed by Willy de Mond, of the hosiery designers of America, that the cinema beauty with the most shapely limbs is Jane Russell, whose measurements are as follows: Ankle, 8½ inches; calf, 12½ inches; thigh, 19½ inches.

Jane Russell

OVER THERE: Frenchwomen rarely have good figures. That's why native-born mannikins are rare in Paris. The best models employed by the Parisian designers come from Sweden and Britain. Right now living conditions are so bad in Paris that the Swedish and British girls are staying at home. This has resulted in such an acute mannikin shortage that many French firms are unable to put on fashion shows. Commenting on the situation, the famous French designer, Marcel Rochas, said: "If the French girls are pretty they haven't the right figure and those with figures are not attractive." According to Monsieur Rochas, the requirements of a high grade dress model are an "attractive face, slim hips, well developed bust, arms and shoulders that look well with decollete."

VEGETARIANS: A California vegetarian names the following notables as having been vegetarians: Ralph Waldo Emerson, Sir Isaac Pitman, Tolstoy, Rosseau, Voltaire, Shelly, Schopenhauer, Thoreau and Wagner. Very interesting list. Still, though all these men had brilliant minds many had far from attractive personalities. There's hardly a genial man on the list. Nor one with a generous sense of humor. I suggest this Californian send me another list of vegetarians. This one does not seem to me to advance the cause of the vegetarian diet.

IN MARYLAND: Mrs. Russell Rowe of Baltimore gave birth to four children within a period of 14½ months; She had twin girls on April 18, 1943, and twin boys on June 3, 1944. "Let California or Brooklyn top this," writes my informant. Russell Rowe, the proud papa of the offspring aforementioned, is a war veteran. He served under General Patton in Europe.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN THE EXCITEMENT over Manchuria, Iran, UNO and all sorts of things, the decision of an Illinois court in the matter of the religious education of American children passed unnoted.

Three jurists, Frank B. Leonard, Grover W. Watson and Martin E. Morthland, judges of the Sixth Judicial Circuit of Illinois, stipulated that it is not unconstitutional for American children in American schools to receive a religious and moral education.

In the decision, under the heading, Findings of Fact, it is stated that the plaintiff, Mrs. McCollum, ". . . adheres to a school of thought known as 'rationalism,' including atheism, is not a believer in any religious creed or doctrine, accepts no part of any Bible as true where such part is not in accord with proved scientific facts . . ."

The real point of the case, as it developed in Champaign, Ill., seems to me not so much that Mrs. McCollum's constitutional rights were impaired because her child was required to sit alone while other children listened to the word of God according to the faith of the child's parents, but that she, being an atheist and a liberal, wanted to prevent all the children from doing what she did not want her child to do.

In this era of excitement over minorities, it is characteristic that so many who call themselves minorities seek to interfere with the lives of most of the people.

CURIOUSLY, James Terry McCollum, the child in the case, "did ask and urge his mother to be allowed to take the religious courses . . ." but the mother felt that "the children harass and annoy their parents to take religious education; that the ultimate effect of these courses is to establish in the minds of these children a knowledge, interest and belief in a certain God and Bible approved and taught by the instructor." How horrible!

Now, it is curious that the testimony shows that the children in the school had never heard of an atheist until this lawsuit started, which is not unusual, for most Americans are God-loving and God-fearing and take Him for granted.

That is why it was so shocking to most Americans that the San Francisco Conference opened and closed without prayer.

It was like unfinished business.

And the same is true of UNO, which started, in London, without form or order and ended in a brawl.

A godless institution will never be attractive to the American people.

MRS. McCOLLUM'S case was based upon the constitutional provision that " 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.' "

But what she tried to prevent was "the free exercise thereof."

The separation of church and state never meant the elimination of religious and moral teachings from the lives of our children. Nor does separation of church and state mean that the state itself may not be guided by religious and moral precepts.

For instance, every public official in the United States, from the President down, when he takes his oath of office, performs a religious act, covenanting with God, and employs the Bible as a witness to his act.

Perhaps Mrs. McCollum would prefer no oath and some other symbol—maybe the collected works of Jean Jacques Rousseau or the speeches of Robert Ingersoll or the writings of Karl Marx.

The court calls attention to this in citing a prior opinion:

"The decision traces the reliance upon God, from the commission of Christopher Columbus, through the charters to the colonies; refers to the language of the Declaration of Independence; specifically calls attention to the Constitution of Illinois of 1870: 'We, the people of the State of Illinois, grateful to Almighty God for the civil, political, and religious liberty,' etc.; the requirements of oaths in our courts and the repeated reference to the Deity, in the Constitution and laws of the United States, and the States."

SO IN THIS BATTLE, God won and now the case will go to the Supreme Court of the United States, which will have to pass upon the right of the American child to a religious and moral education.

In many respects, this is as important as the battle for oil in Iran and Saudi Arabia.

Westbrook Pegler is taking his annual vacation. George E. Sokolsky will write daily for this space during Pegler's absence.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—The "Life of Valentino" is hot again, with a very strong possibility Cornel Wilde will play the popular Latin screen idol. Eddie Small has signed a Columbia release and took, I understand, as part of the deal, permission to use Columbia's right to a Wilde picture.

At the time Small first decided to make the Valentino story he said he would use an unknown. He received over 40,000 applications from aspirants sending their photos and saying their families and friends all thought they looked like Valentino.

Van Johnson

Personally, I don't think Wilde bears any resemblance to Rudy, and they're alike in no way, but I suppose after all these years Rudy has been dead—almost 20 years—not many of the young fans will remember him anyway.

I AM HAPPY and glad to say our industry was adult enough not to war within itself. When MGM and Hal Wallis announced they were going to do an atomic bomb picture, there were rumbles of an expected battle. But all that is in the past.

Wallis has made a deal with MGM whereby he turns over all the story material and research information for "Beginning or the End."

Naturally, he will share in the proceeds. Sam Marx will continue as the producer, and, while MGM isn't admitting it, Van Johnson will have one of the top roles.

MARVIN FARIS gets here this week to join Donald Nelson in the executive position with the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers that John C. Flinn held. I don't know of any newcomer who has come to Hollywood recently who has entrenched himself as strongly as Nelson. He seems to have the good of our industry at heart and to know the picture business. If only Eric Johnston would come here and acquaint himself with Hollywood as Nelson has done, I believe we'd have better results. There isn't anything about the foreign situation and the dangers, or the various investigations pending with which Nelson isn't familiar. He can do so much for Hollywood because he likes the business and our people in it.

A WEEK AGO Constance Collier telephoned me, heartbroken because she had such bad bronchial trouble she had to leave "Perils of Pauline," the Betty Hutton picture. She went to the desert and got rid of her bad throat and, believe me, when I spoke to her by telephone I couldn't understand a word. Now she's back and I am glad because she's one of our better actresses and did want to do that part. Speaking of "Perils," Edith Head says Betty is having a fit because she has to wear high-buttoned shoes and the costumes of the era when Pearl White was flourishing. "They're so damned uncomfortable," says Betty. Yes, I know; I wore 'em then, too!

FOR THE LIFE of me I can't understand why Bella should be kicking up her heels with Monogram at this time. "Suspense," her new movie, is a swell picture, and certainly one of the best skating movies ever made. But very much on the Q. T. I hear the ice belle has turned thumbs down on the story the studio wants her to make for the King Brothers and that the feud has gone so far she is asking for her release. At least her agent is waving that threat. Too bad, because I believe certain stars and certain studios are lucky for each other. Or am I just superstitious?

"This jeep broke through the German lines in Africa, Sicily and France, and you expect it to stop for a red light!"

MRS. TED FIO RITA, whom I knew when Ted was in "Hollywood Hotel" as orchestra leader, telephoned to say, since Ted has made all those allegations against her in the divorce suit which he is filing, she will file a cross-complaint. "We have lived apart a long time," she told me, "but I never obtained a divorce because of my religion, but now that Ted has gone into court I cannot let him take my child away from me without a fight." I don't know any of the inside of the story but it seems too bad, two people who were as happy as [illegible] marriage, should have to start throwing mud at this late date.

HAVE JUST HEARD that Louis de Rochemont, the 20th producer who made that great picture, "The House on 92nd Street," and "Fighting Lady," is in Johns Hopkins Hospital for a checkup to see what is retarding his complete recovery from effects of scarlet fever. He recently had this child's disease in New York and came back to the coast, to Palm Springs, to regain his health, but he hasn't recovered and his doctors have urged that he go to Johns Hopkins and have laboratory tests made to see if there isn't some way the germ can be eliminated.

LOCAL TRADE PAPERS, Hollywood Reporter and Daily Variety, report that Jimmy Fidler was hit between the eyes in his recent debate when he condemned "Dillinger," only to be reminded by Mrs. John Luram, a New York Catholic leader, that he had given it three bells in a previous broadcast and praised it. If Fidler has any legitimate grievance against the motion picture industry, the least he could do would be to give vent to his criticism at home, and not in St. Louis.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Raoul Walsh will marry pretty 21-year-old Mary Simpson as soon as his divorce from Lorraine Walsh is final; Eve Arden, who has a baby, will adopt another one; Geraldine Fitzgerald will go to Reno as soon as she finishes her Paramount picture, for the usual reason—a divorce from Sir Edward Lindsey-Hogg; from London there are reports Patricia Roc, British actress brought here by Universal, will marry Ralph Champion Shotter, Fay Compton's ex-husband. Miss Roc was mentioned in the divorce proceedings; Don (Red) Barry, Republic's cowboy star and Helen Talbot, 20th starlet, are marrying soon; Veronica Lake's party for Howard Hughes was a very gay and festive affair. Veronica, who's beginning to look like the town's best fashion-plate wore a matching hat, dress and gloves. I saw her talking for a long time to Eddie Mannix and it wouldn't surprise me if she goes to MGM when her contract at Paramount is up. Bobbe Fidler was with John Sutton, the Cornel Wildes, Danny Kaye, Cary Grant and Betty Hersel, Linda Darnell and many others accepted the invitation of Veronica and her husband, Andre de Toth. Prince Carl Johan Bernadotte of Sweden came alone. He told me his bride had had an attack of ptomaine poisoning.

HARRY JOE BROWN entertained the Harold G. Kerns and the Donald Nelsons at the Beverly Hills Club. The Kerns left for Boston after a real whirl in Hollywood, where they made many friends; Gail Russell, who was being seen everywhere with Guy Madison, is getting around with John Shelton. Kathryn Grayson's ex, while Kathryn is devoting her evenings to Johnny Johnson; 13-year-old Barbara Whiting, 20th subdeb, says she plays a debutante in "Costa Rica" who is crazy about boys. "In other words," says Barbara, "it's type casting"; the Chicago press photographers voted Shirley Molohon, 20, "Miss Flashlight of 1946." Her reward is a small part in "The Dark Mirror," the Olivia de Havilland-Lew Ayres international movie; Steve Crane with Lila Leeds, new MGM blonde beauty who looks a lot like his ex, Lana Turner, at Bob Dalton's Steak House. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 18—I have just been on the listening end of a long, personal talk which has fired me with so much optimism for our reconversion future I have sold all my crying towels under OPA ceilings.

I had this talk with a fellow who says we are doing sensationally well right now—and he is the one guy in the land who should know. He is John W. Snyder, director of war mobilization and reconversion, the most powerful single individual next to the President.

John W. Snyder

Do you know this, for instance: that despite strikes, lockouts, retarded production, we are producing civilian goods this minute at a rate far greater than at any time previous to the war?

I MIGHT EXPLAIN that I sought the interview with this quiet St. Louis banker because he has been the target lately for some of the most vicious attacks this town has ever seen, and I wanted to find out who was behind the shooting. There seemed to be an organized plan behind it—and I wanted to know why.

Mr. Snyder provided the answer. This easy-going fellow, who is almost notoriously slow to anger, made me sit up as if I had been stung. In my hour's talk with him it had been made plain that he was not referring to the opposite political party.

Of course, explained the reconversion director, there is always shooting from the opposite political party but that is to be expected. In fact, it is accepted as legitimate politics. But that isn't where the deadliest of these attacks are coming from.

They are from a clique which have been in power here and are bitterly resentful of its downfall. The members want to recover their lost power—over both the government and the minds of the people.

They know the way to grab power is to instill fear into the people; to make the people believe a terrible emergency exists, with which those presently in office are not competent to cope. So they have a cry, or slogan.

The cry is "CRISIS!"

With them it's always a "crisis," spelled with a capital C. Everything is an emergency. They keep coming in shouting: "We've got to do something drastic! This is a Crisis!"

I asked Mr. Snyder how he handled these crises-screamers.

"Well," he said, with a slow sly smile; "I listen to them, then I say: 'Unless a crisis has a triple A priority I find difficulty getting worked up about it'."

MR. SNYDER said these calamity-yellers have another standard line. They come in with a piece of business and say: "This thing is loaded with dynamite!" I asked Mr. Snyder what he does about this.

He said that he would lean back in his chair and point to a corner and say: "Well just stack the dynamite over there and go out quietly. I will be the only one here if it goes off."

MR. SNYDER did not name names, but everyone in political Washington knows that his most undercover critic within the inner guard is Chester Bowles of OPA. We got on to the repeated reports that Mr. Snyder is ready to throw up his job and go home.

"I positively have no intention of quitting," he said. "I think you will see me here next week; and the week after that; and the month after that."

This quitting business is an approved Washington routine.

"The attacks also come from some who desire to discredit President Truman so they can get a man of their own back in, thus regaining their power. They are not really out to get me at all. I am only a guy in the middle. But they feel if they can get me, they get the President," Mr. Snyder charged.

They have a regular procedure for knocking off someone who stands in their way. First they get someone to offer the intended victim a big-paying private job. If this doesn't work they start rumors he is considering a big job, thereby hoping to make his superior (meaning the President) uneasy.

If this doesn't produce results they have still another. They start rumors that the fellow is getting disgusted because he is constantly being hamstrung from above (again meaning the President). If this also fails they say he is falling down on the job, botching things up, and is generally incompetent, if not downright stupid. They hope this will sting the fellow so hard he will stalk out of office in a dudgeon.

But, if all of these fail to work, they employ their last card. They keep rumors going that he is about to resign any moment—thereby rendering his subordinates and all who have to work with, or under him, uneasy. They know there is nothing like a feeling of insecurity to break down an organization.

I AM LOADED with more stuff from Mr. Snyder, including figures and statistics which show that we have great cause for optimism, even jubilance, over our reconversion picture, no matter what the calamity groaners may be moaning.

But I can't crowd any more in now. With your kind permission I will give the rest of it tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

TOP O' THE MORNIN' (TO YOU): There is consolation in the knowledge that old Erin, after a war in which it was as uneasy sometimes sitting on the sidelines as it was in actual combat, is not among those countries forced to line up on the right for a handout from Uncle Sam.

Those who were so ready to criticize De Valera and his country for the neutrality policy Eire persisted in maintaining are not quite so loud in their tirades these days . . . Perhaps they are recalling that Ireland had 600 years of intermittent war—a war for liberty—when the recent Allies were enjoying spasmodic intervals, and long ones, of peace.

SPEAKING OF EIRE, a great descendant of Irish forebears, the late Lt. Com. Edward H. O'Hare of St. Louis, and (in vacations) of Dighton, Mass., must be ranked with one of the great heroes of World War II . . . President Roosevelt bestowed the Congressional Medal of Honor on young O'Hare, and St. Louis gave him a home-coming reception that rivaled any given an American leader in any city of the country.

WE HAD occasion to search the library of this newspaper recently for the clippings that tell the story of a man as he figured in the news . . . Of more than 400 separate pieces from newspapers about Commander O'Hare's exploits in shooting down six Jap bombers in five minutes, exactly two clippings dealt with his heroic death . . . One was a report by the Navy that he was missing . . . The other was a longer story in which a comrade of young Eddie told of his dramatic farewell to armed combat, and as far as is known, to this life . . . He took off in darkness to break up a Jap attack . . . Seeing a Jap on O'Hare's tail, his fellow officer called vainly to him over the radio of his plane . . . There was no answer.

AND ONLY two clippings tell of the young hero's untimely death out of more than 400—Not even an official report from the Navy of Commander O'Hare's fate is included in the O'Hare envelopes . . . It occurred to us that America is impatient with the news of war when the news is bad . . . It occurred to us, moreover, that the U. S. Navy—which was reflected gloriously in the O'Hare exploits—should issue a complete report of exactly what happened to one of its outstanding heroes, a man whose record of six enemy planes in one engagement will probably be a record for all wars, past or future.

SPEAKING OF WAR in the future, one with the respect this column holds for the ability of Walter Winchell cannot listen to the dynamic reporter without sensing that a grave danger of World War III actually exists . . . Walter declared two weeks ago that World War III (a "holy war," as he termed it) was upon us already . . . One senses from the information Winchell does furnish, that he has matters of equally grave import in his mind which—for the time—cannot be confided to his millions of readers or listeners.

THIS IS no indulgence in the know-it-all technique . . . Winchell does not need to fall back on tricks which have been outmoded for years . . . And he is too sincere an American citizen to alarm his countrymen without need, or merely to further his own great reputation for sagacity . . . The truth is that few reporters in America have the "connections" and news sources possessed by Walter Winchell.

HIS FRIENDSHIP with J. Edgar Hoover is legendary and real . . . Confidences exchanged by the two must be akin to that of any other less consequential team of friends . . . One item of news given his clients by Reporter Winchell was his iteration of the report that Stalin has thrown the Soviet's weight to the Arabs in the Battle of Palestine . . . This being the truth, Stalin's reputation for sagacity is obviously exaggerated . . . Any world leader who backs the voiceless Ay-rabs against the highly articulate and organized powers of World Jewry is a rank sucker . . . If Stalin has not been able to derive that one object lesson from a study of the career and ruin of his one-time partner, Adolf Hitler, then he is not the all time master-mind who out-traded Roosevelt and Churchill in a couple of Big Three conferences . . . Yet if someone in the Soviet government is the real mind behind the guns—would it not be this same character who is still using Pal Joey as a Charlie McCarthy? . . . And would that mighty brain step into the Arab-Jew controversy merely because—as Mr. Winchell infers—the Arabs outnumber the Jews in the Near East? . . . It does not appear to be the same brand of fast and able thinking.

COME TO THINK of it, though, the Jews could go to the record and find a precedent for Stalin being against the race as part of a policy . . . When he signed that non-aggression pact with Hitler in August, 1939, Stalin was aligning himself and his country against the Jews.

3 N. E. Senators Favor Big Loan

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Three of the six Republican Senators who have made up their minds to vote for the $3,750,000,000 British loan are from New England, an Associated Press poll showed today.

Sens. Aiken and Austin of Vermont and Tobey of New Hampshire, announced they would vote for the loan. All other New Englanders were undecided.

Twenty-one Senators said they were inclined to vote the credit, 20 were against it.

Austin summarized his view this way:

"From experience we know we cannot have political peace unless we re-establish economic peace. The alternative to establish this credit will be quick revival of economic warfare which contributed to World War II."

Aiken—"If it is determined that the British loan and loans to other nations will result in expansion of international trade, I shall support it."

Tobey—"Our interests as well as Britain's are concerned and this loa nis the best way to care for them."

Churchill Sees Self in Movies

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Winston Churchill went to the movies last night—to see Winston Churchill.

A newsreel company gave a private screening at Churchill's hotel so the former British prime minister could see films of his current U. S. visit, along with earlier newsreels.

A newsreel official said Churchill was "visibly moved" by the scenes of his talks with his old friend, Franklin Roosevelt.

by Izzy Ort

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — Years ago, wen I wuz a kid, I saw some pigs fer the first time an' I couldn't figger out why they was layin' in mud puddles all day long an' apparently likin' it. Life is funny; at this very minute, I'm settin' in a mud bath myself an' it ain't bad! I guess maybe them pigs had somethin'! Ah! I been so good ta me these past few weeks! I been gettin' sun, an' fresh air an' vitamins in the raw an' now I'm hollin' myself at Hot Springs witch is one of the greatest things that Uncle Sam owns. Accordin' ta the way I feel I oughta be able ta do a hundred yards in 15 seconds flat this spring! Awreddy I feel years younger than I look! If I could only look as young as I feel! Ya'd think that I wuz comin' home fer a year of tremendous effort an' work. It ain't really so but when I get my nose ta the grindstone, I don't count the hours an' workin' like this, ain't good fer anybody's vitality. Incidently, Chick Harris an' His Gentlemen of Swing orchestra is openin' in my Grille Monday witch is a good deal fer them wat likes dancin'. Tony Piecheottli, wat used ta be wid Jimmie Dorsey, is in this band! Drop inta Ort's Grille an' El Tropico, 25 Essex St. Advt.

34 Designers Dress You for Spring

Hattie Carnegie Starts Daily Fashion Parade

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

HAIL, THE new woman . . . the woman of spring, 1946! At long last she will dress to look like a charming woman in clothes that are soft and subtle . . . tailored with grace and distinction . . . accessorized to perfection . . . typically Yankee Doodle and dandy . . . and a justification of the post-war era of renewed vanity and romance. For this is the first peace-time spring . . . and fashion-joy is unrestrained. Aren't you happy about the whole thing?

Today we start a 34-day fashion parade series. The clothes and fashion credo for spring of 34 of the country's top-name designers will be spotlighted daily. Translated will be the style-maker's theory that if this spring your clothes show you have a care in the world, they're wrong.

Each day for 34 days three costumes . . . posed and selected exclusively for the Boston Evening American . . . will be featured on the page. Some day you'll find your counterpart . . . the way you'll like to look in the Easter Parade.

Each day, over the designer's own signature, you'll read his or her verbal interpretation of how you should look.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Nettie Rosenstein)

HERE'S Hattie Carnegie's famous Cosmopolitan suit tailored in gray sharkskin and starring spring's longer torso jacket . . . which most women can wear — and well. Saddle pockets encircling the hips accentuate a small waistline look. And the black bird in the grey Renoir felt hat is properly perched.

PINK AND TAUPE wool fashions this Hattie Carnegie suit, so pert and pretty for the youthful in face and figure. The jacket ripples around the hips over a slim skirt and features banded detail and lush pink wooden buttons. It's lined with pink crepe . . . to match the blouse which you can't see. A taupe felt and straw bonnet sweeps the clean brow and shows the hair.

THE BOXY jacket suit . . . which the tall and slim love and adore . . . is another Carnegie achievement. This one in navy striped wool . . . with a straight cut skirt . . . is as smart and sophisticated as the navy throat tie on the white crepe blouse that goes with it. Flat-heeled shoes for the tall accent the stove-pipe navy-banded white shantung sky-reaching hat.

DESIGNERS TO WATCH FOR:

Hattie Carnegie starts the fashion parade today. Nettie Rosenstein follows tomorrow. Then Norman Norell and 31 other top-flight designers, including Adele Simpson, Claire Potter, Claire McCardell, Jo Copeland, Jessie Walker, Brownie, [illegible], Pauline Trigere, Patric, Ben Reig, Emily Wilkens, Anthony Blanin, Lee Samuel Kaye, Hiimen Reng, Vera Jessin, Donahue, Joseph Halpert, William Rose, Lloyd Wolf, Joseph Whitehead, Morgan Peath, Madeleine Couture, Sylvia Franklin, Charles Armour, Mat Davidow, Monty, Jacob Horwitz, Herbert Sondheim, Rose Bennett and Cele Chapman.

I HAVE wished my clothes this spring to emphasize freshness, distinction and a certain subtlety that's elegant. To me they look so gay, so becomingly fitted that in them a woman herself is NEWS.

The silhouette emphasis is on fitting. The torso is lowered and, in most cases, fitted. There are quite a few blouse silhouettes. Ribs look bound. Hips are outlined, either jutting out gently through fitting or slight drapery. Skirts are narrow in the little black dress and in evening prints which are again pure silk. Shoulders are simple.

There is a terrific amount of embroidery, like chalk white beads on black wool suits. I personally feel that nothing is more charming than a handsome coat, faille or wool, covering every inch of a short dress. Suits show enormous attention to detail. Every woman should have a suit wardrobe. Even the town suit is leading a double life by the changing of blouses. The redingote is important in coats. I also have a great feeling for short capes in fur.

Ash beige, smoke brown, smoke pink, lime, dawn gray and hydrangea blue I feel are the strong colors for spring. It is because of these colors that clothes express such gladness and beauty.

To me, women will look more like women this spring . . . more feminine, more gay . . . than in many years.

Waste of Bread Revealed High in American Homes

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

NOW WHILE WORLD NEEDS for bread are great, American homemakers need to give more thought to saving this food. How careless household practices are in this respect has been discovered by investigations, which showed that bread and other baked goods are among the most wasted foods in American kitchens. Crusts, stale slices, even half and whole loaves, a little too hard for table use, have been thrown out regularly by many homemakers. In warm weather mold has been allowed to take a heavy toll in bread boxes.

One way to prevent bread waste is not to overbuy. Because bread becomes too stale for many people's taste in a few days, it should be purchased in small quantity. At home, keep bread cool and well covered to prevent mold and drying out. The refrigerator is the best place to store a well-wrapped loaf if there is room. Otherwise, keep it in a ventilated bread box in a cool place.

The bread box needs washing, rinsing with boiling water, and thorough drying and airing, in the sun if possible, at regular intervals. If a trace of mold appears on bread, discard that part of the bread at once, and wash the bread box thoroughly to prevent spread of mold.

Bread that becomes a little too dry for the table can be put to many uses. Thin slices, dried out and lightly browned in a slow oven have extra flavor and may be served like the Melba toast which takes the place of bread on tables in many smart restaurants and hotels. Slightly hard slices of bread also may be used for toasted cheese sandwiches and for French toast. Make French toast by dipping in a milk and egg mixture, then frying to a golden brown on both sides.

Crusts and other odds and ends of bread may be used for the supply of crumbs which every cook likes to have on hand. These crumbs may be used for coating foods for frying, for topping baked dishes, stuffing vegetables and meat, or for such specials as crumb pie crust, crumb cake and crumb cookies.

Keep the jar or tin of crumbs covered and in a cool place to keep the contents dry and fresh in flavor.

Very often an alternate cereal food may be used at meals to save wheat—oatmeal for breakfast instead of toast, for example, or oatmeal bread and cookies to spare wheat flour.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS AND CELERY

1-3 cup butter, margarine or drippings
1½ cups dry bread crumbs
1 dozen oysters
1½ cups finely cut celery
1 tbsp. minced parsley
Salt and pepper
¼ cup oyster liquor
¾ cup milk

Melt fat, add crumbs and stir until well blended. Butter baking dish and cover bottom with buttered crumbs. Add layer of oysters and half the celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Cover with more crumbs. Repeat, covering the top with crumbs. Combine oyster liquor with milk and pour over contents of baking dish. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

CHEESE OMELET

1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup milk
4 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup grated cheese
Salt and pepper
4 egg whites, beaten stiff
2 tbsp. butter or margarine

Combine crumbs and milk, and beat until smooth. Add beaten egg yolks, cheese, and seasoning. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Melt butter in heavy frying pan, pour mixture into it and cook, covered, over low fire 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out on platter and serve, garnished with parsley.

CHOCOLATE CRUMB PUDDING

2/3 cup hot milk
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 square chocolate, melted
1 tsp. vanilla
1 egg yolk, beaten
1 egg white, beaten stiff

Pour hot milk over bread crumbs, butter, sugar and salt. Add chocolate, vanilla, and beaten egg yolk. Mix well, fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Calls at His Leisure

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am of teen age and am going around with a boy of my own age. I have been going around with him for four months, then all of a sudden I didn't see him for about three months, and I was wondering why he didn't come to see me. So lately he did come, and we went to the movies together. But always when it's time for him to go home, he just says, "So long. I'll be seeing you," and then I never know when I am going to see him again. He only comes when he feels like it, it seems to me.

He says he likes me, but from the way he acts sometimes I wonder if he really does. If he makes a date on the spur of the moment, should I go? It seems that's the only way we go out together. B. A. D.

It's never too early to start learning that most boys just come to see girls when they feel like it, B. A. D. If doing your best to give him a good time when he does come and take you out isn't enough to keep him coming back, there isn't much you can do about it.

But the teen age isn't too early, either, to learn the importance of not showing too much eagerness. If he wants to make dates with you only on the spur of the moment, be fixed up with another date some time when he calls at the last minute. Let him see that you're not sitting around waiting for him to telephone. Go out and have fun with other boys. It may give him something to think about.

Noted Hair Stylist, Expert At Short Coif, to Visit Hub

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

MONSIEUR PAUL, noted hair stylist credited for the trend to shorter hair, comes to Boston next Monday for one week. But he is also the first to tell you . . . and we strongly ditto his sentiments . . . NOT to wear it short if it is not becoming to you . . . since your silhouette must be considered before you let anybody get busy with snipping off your locks.

He has just returned from a tour of salons throughout the country . . . styling coifs, from the career girls of Detroit to the chic socialites of Hollywood. He reports that in California . . . the shears were kept busy on about 45 women daily.

Whether you do or don't dare to cut your hair . . . you should let this hair expert study your facial and figure contours . . . and tell you how to style your hairdo becomingly. He will be available for personal consultations entirely complimentary. But we know he'll be heavily booked . . . judging from the returns throughout the country . . . and so we're giving you this week's advance notice of his arrival so you can plan a meeting with him. The consultation is without charge . . . although the spring hairdo is an important new item.

There are women who will continue to look like goddesses with long hair swirled around their heads . . . sophisticates who look best when hair remains long. However, there is a young group who believe hair can be flexibly handled if it is half and half . . . not short . . . not long. Let Monsieur Paul tell you into what category your particular hair charm belongs.

We'll be glad to tell you how to arrange for a free interview with Monsieur Paul, if you phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Thanks for Flowers Sent for a Funeral

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Will you please tell me the correct form to use in thanking for flowers sent for a funeral? And would writing a note to each one be correct? S. L.

Every message or expression of sympathy—notes, cards either mailed or left at the house or funeral parlor, and memorial flowers—should be acknowledge by a personal note written by some member of the family or a close friend of the family. When flowers are thanked for, a definite reference should be made to the individual floral piece sent.

'The Last Chance' at Exeter Among Top Foreign Films

By PEGGY DOYLE

The best foreign films of all will go to the Exeter, if the Swiss-made product, "The Last Chance," which initiates the MGM-International's program of important releases only for this house is any criterion.

"The Last Chance" is a remarkable dramatization of the experiences of people who sought refuge in the wartime haven of Europe's war refuges, Switzerland.

With the same skill that made the only other film to come out of Switzerland since the war, "Marie Louise," Lazar Wechsler, a notable documentarist, has mingled untrained refugee players with experienced actors, giving the picture a rare authenticity.

Essentially, it is the story of an oddly assorted group of refugees fleeing from Italy to the safety of Switzerland under the guidance of three escaped Allied war prisoners.

But it is much more than that. At a time when international relations are what is diplomatically termed "delicate," is demonstration of peoples of different nationalities and creeds co-operating in a common cause . . . escape from the Nazis . . . is extraordinarily moving and genuinely inspirational.

Throughout there is an unusual quality of reality, which characterizes the notably natural settings as well as the acting.

One of the film's stars is Sgt. Penrose Reagan of Laurel Springs, N. J., flight engineer on a B-17 which was hit over Munich and forced to land in Switzerland where the crew was interned.

Reagan plays a role similar to his real-life one in the film. John Hoy, his co-star and an RAF flier, pays with his life for seeing the refugees to safety.

More languages are spoken in "The Last Chance" than in any picture ever to reach the screen. English and Italian are principally employed. Other languages heard include Swiss, Yiddish, German, Dutch, French and Serbian. But so vividly is the story presented that you will be conscious of no lingual barriers. Both the acting and the English sub-titles eloquently present the story.

In previous releases in other cities, it is significant that "The Last Chance" has shattered the superstition that United States audiences shy away from foreign films. With the prestige of the MGM imprimatur and its intrinsic excellence, "The Last Chance" has done business virtually equal to the all-time high average in the theaters in which it has played in New York and outdistanced Hollywood best-sellers in other cities.

Four More Qualify For Oratory Finals

By BERT FORD

With high hope of qualifying for a share in the $25,000 local and national prizes in Victory Bonds offered in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest, four Boston high school students joined a score of others yesterday as winners in their intramural contests.

They will be eligible for the Boston finals to be held April 10 in Faneuil Hall, and top winners will then be eligible for the Eastern Zone and national finals, to be held this year in Boston Latin School—the zone finals on April 24, the nationals on May 2.

These four young entrants, three boys and one girl, like many other students throughout the country, have found inspiration and challenge in the subject of this year's oratorical contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States."

The entrant selected by St. Columbkille High School in Arlington st., Brighton, is Miss Juliet O'Leary of Newcastle rd., Brighton. From Brandeis High School, the winner of the intramurals is Howard E. Ogilvie.

Brighton High School presents as its representative Paul Robsham, a member of the senior class, while Boston Technical High School has chosen Robert J. Brenner of the graduating class, an associate editor of the 1946 Year Book and of the Artisan, the school periodical, and a captain in the Cadets.

This contest is open to high school and college students in 13 major cities throughout the country, and Boston is proud to be host to these students at the eastern zone and national finals. An entertaining and instructive visit for competing students has been planned, including trips to historic Boston area shrines where ideals of American democracy were founded and fought for.

Awards in this contest are sufficiently high to have brought enlistments from thousands of students throughout the country. There will be $25,000 in local and national prizes, all in Victory Bonds, and equally divided between high school and college groups.

Local prizes are: first, $250; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $50; fifth, $25. There will be an additional $50 Victory Bond awarded to all who reach their zone finals.

The subject of the contest, Andrew Jackson, the great hero-general and statesman who from poverty and obscurity rose to be President of the United States, has in itself been an inspiration to young students, and particularly to discharged veterans now completing their education under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

To youth throughout the country, Andrew Jackson typifies a true American who lived and fought through problems as critical as the problems of today, and who achieved greatness not only for himself but for his nation.

Called by People

When Andrew Jackson resigned as Governor of Florida in 1821, he retired to his humble home in Tennessee. He believed he had put public life behind him, but the people willed otherwise. As a preparatory step to launching him as a candidate for President of the United States, the people of Tennessee in 1823 elected him Senator.

There were five able and popular men mentioned as possible successors to President Munroe. They were William H. Crawford, Secretary of the Treasury; John Quincy Adams, Secretary of State; John C. Calhoun, Secretary of War; Henry Clay, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and De Witt Clinton, Governor of New York. But the Tennessee Legislature presented the name of Jackson, and his popularity with the people rendered him a most formidable competitor.

Jap Volcano's Lava Stream Mile Wide

TOKYO, March 18 (AP)—A mile-wide lava stream, threatening at least one village on Southern Kyushu, is moving toward the sea from Minami Dake, historic Jap volcano which has flared into activity on Sakura Jima peninsula across from the city of Kagoshima.

VETERANS—ATTENTION!

Attend State House hearing Tuesday, 10:30 A. M., March 19 and speak on $1000 Veteran Bonus Bill filed by former Lt. Governor Francis E. Kelly; funds to be raised from State supervised lottery that voters instructed State Senators in 1940 to adopt by vote of 805,000 to 325,000. Last year while we were at war Legislature insulted us and cut Kelly's $1000 bonus bill to $100 although same year representatives and senators increased their own pay $500 for 1945 and same for '46—total pay increase $1000 and increased expenses with no roll call vote or referendum to voters. Their pay increase for two years was $1000 for staying at home while they voted us a measly $100. Bring your buddies to speak on Kelly bill Tuesday.

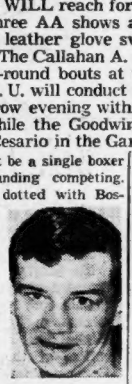
Spider Armstrong Choice Over Harris at Garden

By JACK CONWAY

BOXING WILL reach for the fistic skies in Boston this week when three AA shows are offered to a public which likes to see a leather glove swooping in the direction of a sturdy chin. The Callahan A. C. will open the fistic barrage with four ten-round bouts at the Garden tonight, the New England A. A. U. will conduct its local championships at the Arena tomorrow evening with more than 50 "simon pures" competing, while the Goodwin A. C. will feature Gus Mell and Johnny Cesario in the Garden on Friday night.

There will not be a single boxer of national standing competing. The bouts are dotted with Boston and New England ring men who have given action in the past. This will enable the promoters to offer more satisfactory shows than if they were to feature a name fighter against an opponent he can knock out any time he wishes. One of the reasons boxing has been prospering here is because the clubs have been passing up the name scrappers other than when they will agree to take on a legitimate ring rival.



Buddy Hayes

Jackie Harris of Malden will battle "Spider" Armstrong in the top 10-rounder at the Callahan A. C.'s show tonight. Harris is a busy featherweight, and he feels that his speed and youth will enable him to outscore the 35-year-old Armstrong. The latter re-established himself as a fistic card when he outscored Buddy Hayes of the South End.

Armstrong will probably enter the ring a favorite in view of his knowledge of the fine points of the game. Despite his creaking muscles, "Spider" expects to toss enough punches to outpoint Harris.

In the other ten rounders, Buddy Hayes will meet Midget Mayo, Philadelphia; Tommy Greb, pride of the West End House, will battle Tony Costa, Woonsocket, while Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, will take on John Henry Eskew, Brockton.

Return of Amateurs

AMATEUR boxing has been very quiet since the Dilboy Post conducted its shows last Summer. The Irish American A. A. did not stage weekly shows on account of the dearth of talent. Now that many former amateur stars have returned home from the war it is possible to secure enough boxers to stage a tournament.

The New England A. A. U. will hold its championship battles at the Arena tomorrow night. More than 50 boxers will compete in the various classes. The heavyweight class has five entries, and it is expected that the big fellows will give an abundance of action.

Cesario Seeks Revenge

JOHNNY CESARIO of the North End will try to even his score with Gus Mell of Montreal when they top the Goodwin A. C. card at the Garden Friday night.

Weights Tonight

The boxing commission, weighing in fighters for tonight at the Garden, announced the following: Buddy Hayes, 127½, vs. Midget Mayo, 128¼; Tony Costa, 132, vs. Tommy Greb, 130½; Tommy Sullivan, 171, vs. Henry Eskew, 169½; Spider Armstrong, 129¼, vs. Jackie Harris, 128¼.

Cesario was in the midst of a wild victory streak when he was beaten by Mell. Cesario was leading in the early rounds, then was belted to the canvas five times, and lost the verdict.

Mell insists he will once more beat Cesario. Gus has shown some of the form in recent bouts that originally enabled him to climb to the fistic heights.

Mell and Cesario will be supported by three eight round bouts. The opening eight will find Al Smith, Roxbury, swapping blows with Steve Curley, Toronto; Buddy Brown, Boston, will toss punches at George (Red) Doty, hard hitting Hartford favorite, while the third eight will feature Larry Pacino, heavy thumping Roxbury boxer, against Al Evans of Newport.

The Goodwin Club announces it has signed Jake LaMotta of New York to collide with "Kid" Chicken of Pittsburgh, at the Garden on March 29. LaMotta is the chief challenger for Tony Zale, middleweight boss, while Chicken is being ballyhooed as another "Tiger" Flowers.

The Chicken recently won from Reedy Evans of Chicago in a Garden bout.

War Vets Brace Huskies Nine

Herb Gallagher of Newton, who doffed his lieutenant-commander's uniform only a month ago, got back into coaching harness this morning when he greeted 98 candidates for the Northeastern baseball team. Included in the group were 22 former letter winners, many of whom recently returned to Northeastern after foreign service.

Gallagher was particularly pleased to see Bill Shannon of Watertown. Bill is a Marine Corps hero who is expected to be a pitching mainstay. Big Fred Pearce of Milton, fresh out of the Coast Guard, also is eager to fulfill Gallagher's prediction of six years ago that he would be an outstanding major league outfield prospect.

Four Dog Tracks Ask 200 Days of Racing

The State Racing Commission announced today that the Revere Racing Ass'n, Inc., has applied for 100 days of greyhound racing at Wonderland Park, Revere, between June 1 and Oct. 31. A hearing date of April 4 has been set. Only 50 racing dates were granted in 1945.

At the same time, the Taunton Greyhound Ass'n, Inc., applied for a license for 50 racing days between April 18 and Oct. 31, as the commission might decide. Hearing will be held at North Dighton on March 29. Last year the track was granted 25 days.

The Massasoit Greyhound Ass'n Inc., asked for 40 days at the Raynham track, sometime between May 15 and Oct. 31. The commission will hold a hearing in Raynham on March 29. Last year 25 days were granted.

In addition, the 101st Infantry Charitable Foundation sought 10 days of racing between May 15 and Oct. 31. Last year the foundation got six racing dates.

Bruins in Title Stride For Cup Duel Tomorrow

By FRED HOEY

Playing sharp and impressive hockey, just the sort that wins championships, the Boston Bruins defeated the Chicago Blackhawks, 5-3, in a fine, open game last night at the Boston Garden before the usual capacity attendance.

By grabbing this game the Bruins assured themselves of second place in the final showdown. This means in play-off terms, they will meet fourth place Detroit in the first game of their series tomorrow night at the Garden. The second game will be played Thursday night at the North Station. Then the teams move on to Detroit Friday for a Sunday battle.

Jack Crawford

The Bruins looked like a good hockey team last night. They were on the rubber all night. While individual players and lines looked outstanding, the player that caught the eye of many was Jack Crawford. This warrior was in the right spot on every occasion. His dashing defensive work even carried the youthful Murray Henderson to great heights.

The Bruins proved last night they have the talent to go through to win the Stanley Cup.

Just before game time player-coach Dit Clapper reported with a touch of grippe. That put the gallant veteran out of action, but the other defense men carried on magnificently.

The Bruins didn't take long to get going against the Hawks. Directly after the opening face off the Bruins pressed the action into the Chicago end. That promising young defense bird Murray Henderson grabbed the rubber and passed to Bep Guidolin who scored. From here in it was a cinch the Bruins were going to win. The Hawks provided several rallies. On two occasions when Jack Crawford was penalized Coach Johnny Gottsleig of the Hawks sent five forwards on the ice. They were unable to puncture Frankie Brimsek's stalwarts defense.

One penalty against Crawford was a beaut. Referee Gravel called it. It was charging. The rule provides that a player taking two steps, or strides, is guilty of charging. Crawford did not even take a stride. But everything went last night, including board checks and interference.

The Bruins, in winning second place for themselves last night, looked like a good hockey team. They should go through to the title, even against the famed Canadiens.

Pics-Falcons Game Put Off

The Eastern Amateur Hockey League play-offs game scheduled between the Philadelphia Falcons and the Olympics here tomorrow night has been postponed until later this week.

The Bruins' victory last night meant that the Garden would be used for the Boston-Detroit game tomorrow. The Pics who easily whipped Baltimore yesterday, 8 to 2, were scheduled to meet the Falcons tomorrow night. The Falcons can't help the rink situation as their home ice is also being used tomorrow.

The Pics now lead the play-off round robin, 6 wins and 2 defeats.

Braves Prospect Is Sent to Indians

By BILL GRIMES

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 18—Gene Patton, the youngest of 15 children, will not celebrate his 20th birthday until July. Prior to his enlistment in the Army on Aug. 2, 1944, he was with Wilmington, Del., in the Inter-State League for 25 days, during which he played 38 games.

After observing him here for a month, the Braves are convinced that Patton is good enough to take the Indianapolis third base berth from the veteran Woody English. So, Gene has been optioned to Manager Bill Burwell's American Ass'n club.

Back in 1939, the Braves recalled Sibby Sisti from Hartford. Fresh out of Canisius High School of Buffalo, Sisti reported at Hartford in June, 1938. He was one of the best prospects the Braves had come up with in many years. But, to date, eight years after entering organized baseball, Sisti hasn't lived up to predictions.

There isn't any question but that if Sibby Sisti had been allowed to work his way up from Class A through Class AA ball to the Braves, he'd be outstanding today, instead of an unsolved problem which has, and still is, baffling the experts.

Patton was one of the greatest schoolboy all around athletes ever produced in Eastern Pennsylvania. While a student at Coatsville High School, Gene was honored by all-scholastic selections in football, basketball and baseball. He's a smart kid and is going to make a name for himself in baseball. He has made a keen study of the game and modestly admits that he is two years away from the big league. Although he is on the Braves roster, Patton was wise enough to realize that he couldn't catch on with Bill Southworth's first Boston club. In his opinion, the Eastern League is his speed and therefore he wanted, and, for that matter still wants, to go to Hartford. During the 25 days he was with Wilmington, Patton played under "Dutch Dorman," who will manage Hartford this season. Gene is a Dorman booster, because, as he says, "Dutch" is for his players.

After receiving the announcement that Patton had been optioned to Indianapolis, I asked Gen. Mgr. Jack Quinn if he believed the kid could make the grade in the American Ass'n.

"I believe he can," answered the GM, "and if he does, he will reach the National League one year sooner than if he went to Hartford." "As I understand it, Woody English is rated as the tops of the third sackers in the American Ass'n," I said.

"Possibly he was," Quinn admitted. "But, we are going along with young prospects, not slipping veterans. However, if Gene cannot make Indianapolis, we will send him to Hartford, but as I said, he will be at least two years away if he goes to the Eastern League."

Ab Jenkins Heads Auto Race Group

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 18 (INS)—Ab Jenkins, of Indianapolis, noted auto racing speedster, today was elected president of the board of directors of the National Auto Racing Fraternity during the group's first annual convention here.

Fishing Folk To Assist Vets

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

To help raise the morale of wounded and convalescent servicemen and veterans, many of whom are keenly interested in fishing, the Inland Fishing Committee of the Mass. Fish and Game Ass'n will cooperate with the American Theater Wing by visiting various hospitals in the state, where action movies of angling will be shown. Fly-tying classes will also be organized by this group, conducted especially for the veterans.

Under the direction of Paul Provandie, of Melrose, the committee is composed of Al Barnard, Boston, and Arthur Stansfield, Needham. We talked with these men at the opening of the Norfolk trout pools, Saturday, and they were very enthusiastic about this worthwhile project.

"The sport of fishing has proven to be helpful and relaxing to hundreds of vets throughout the country," stated Mr. Provandie. "Large numbers of the boys have also displayed the desire to learn the art of tying flies, so we intend to do all we can to help 'em along these lines."

This sportsman added that the Mass. Fish and Game Ass'n had extended an invitation to the "Plastic Casters Club" of the Cushing General Hospital to utilize the Norfolk ponds at any time. Still in their casts, these men are eager to try the kind of "casts" they enjoy so much.

ANGLING ANGLES: "Did you hear that a couple of striped bass were hooked in the Canal last week?" a sportsman asked us at Norfolk. "And some codfish were hooked, too!" he declared . . . If the tale about the stripers is true, this specie is really jumping the season!

On the scene was Don Horter, of Brookline, who seemed more interested in taking color movies than seeking trout . . . Dr. Al Barron, and Frank Eisele, of Watertown, caught their limits, using Red and White Bucktails.

Warren Raymond, duck call expert of the Sportsmen's Show, tied into a couple of nice ones . . . Only one brownie was landed, plus a few rainbows, left over from last year's stocking.

J. B. Watson and Hollis Gerrish each came up with four trout

Phillies Dazzle Grapefruit Loop

It may not be like that once the regular campaign begins, but right now the Phillies are leading the National League—in the Grapefruit standings, according to the Associated Press. The Yankees are setting the spring pace among the American League teams.

The Phils, in winning seven of their 10 exhibition games, boast a 5-2 record against big time opposition. Ben Chapman's crew has whipped the Braves three times, Brooklyn once and the Athletics once.

The Yankees, whose three weeks of training in Panama gave them an edge on their rivals in conditioning, have won 18 of their 21 games.

The Braves are sixth in the N. L. "standings," the Red Sox fourth.

Eddie McGah Rated Close to Hal Wagner

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, March 18—Eddie McGah will do. The scrappy Irishman from Oakland, Cal., proved that as Tex Hughson and Dave Ferriss blanked Kansas City 6-0 in a St. Patrick's Day game, while the Red Sox regulars were playing in St. Pete.

McGah, recall, is the 24-year-old catcher who was given a substantial bonus by the Sox when a schoolboy. He was in the Chain Gang a couple of years, then entered the service. He was voted a better catcher in the Honolulu League than Rollie Hemsley, Bob Scheffing or Herman Franks. That proves little.

The best ball players in these Naval Leagues it seems came from Class B, or C, trying to make a reputation, the big leaguers just didn't care. They didn't like the dough they were getting, so they didn't try too hard. McGah was an exception among those bushers. He tried, and did well, and it also happened that Johnny Pesky was on his side. Pesky raved about him when he returned from the Pacific.

"He can do everything," Pesky said. "In fact he could wind up No. 1 catcher on this club."

Pesky didn't know Hal Wagner. Even in the service so long he didn't remember him. But McGah certainly looks good enough to be No. 2 behind Wagner.

He can hit, he can run (he'd give Wakefield an argument over 100 yards) and he can throw.

He's been troubled with a sore index finger on his throwing hand, and saw little action until the St. Patrick's day game. Nobody knew, or seemed to know, if he could receive like a big leaguer.

"One hell of a catcher," said Catcher Wagner who saw McGah catch Hughson five innings before Wagner himself caught Ferriss the last four. "Gives you that nice target. Agile as a cat, smart."

"A good receiver," said Hughson, who pitched to McGah for five innings.

"I was clumsy," said McGah. "First game I worked. I'll do better if I get a chance to play more often.

McGah bats right. Wagner bats left. McGah can reach the left field fence at Fenway. Better, he can reach Kenmore square with his drives. He's a long ball hitter. Wagner on the other hand is a line drive hitter and he hits to that right field. There's plenty of room for both at Fenway Park and on the road.

Now Pytlak and Conroy will battle it out for No. 3, with odds favoring Pytlak.

Tex Hughson—"First time I really bore down," said the 22-game winner of '42. "I had it when I wanted it. I felt good." Only time he didn't feel good was when Mike Ryba sent Flair to pinch hit for him at the end of the fifth. Tex likes to hit. "What for?" he challenged Ryba. Tex sat on the bench while Flair hit. "You better be good," he kept yelling. He had Flair laughing so much the big first baseman flied out. Tex fanned six in five innings, allowed three hits while experimenting. Ferriss, pitching the last four with Kelleher looking on, gave no hits. "Nice fellows," said KC manager Billy Meyer. "Nice fellows, they ruin you and laugh."

Heinie Majeski — Yanks can not use him. They've got too many third basemen. Wagering is that the Sox will grab him before the season opens. Andres has been disappointing. Pellagrini has a sacro-illiac condition that is keeping him idle. Russell, Lang, Gilbert or Mele aren't the type to fit into a pennant winner at the far turn, or so Sox vets think. "Why did they ever let Tabor go?" you hear on all sides. Best guess is that the Sox will come up with Majeski or Keltner.

Tennis Pures Get Top Pay on Coast Kovacs Claims

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Frank Kovacs, tennis pro, asserted today that big-time "amateur" tennis stars are not amateurs and haven't been for a long, long time.

"I've been paid off as an amateur many times, and so have a lot of other ranking players," he said in an interview.

Kovacs turned to Welby Van Horn, southern pro champion, and asked: "Right, Welby?"

"I'm a pro now and earn twice as much as I did as an amateur," Kovacs continued. "But I earned plenty as an amateur. I've received from $200 up for a tournament—that's over and above my expenses. The tournament committees make no bones about paying it, because they know they can't get the top players unless they do.

"If you want to learn more about it, ask the chairmen of some of the tournament committees out West. I've received as high as $500 for a West Coast amateur tourney."

Kovacs declared it was time to have all tournament players classed as professionals and play in open tournaments.

NE Catholic Court Play on Arena Card

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There'll be no let-up in the hustle and bustle of schoolboy basketball with the New England Catholic Tournament taking over the sports spotlight this week with three torrid sessions of 11 games scheduled for the Boston Arena this week-end—opening Friday night at 6 p. m.

All eight entries will play Friday and Saturday nights with only three games carded for the wind-up Sunday afternoon when Archbishop Richard J. Cushing will present his trophy to the winner.

Four local representatives will be in the play-offs. St. Mary's of Lynn and Central Catholic of Lawrence will represent the northern division of the Catholic League; Mission of Roxbury and St. Mary's of Waltham the southern section of the circuit; Sacred Heart of Holyoke; St. John's of Concord, N. H.; Cheverus of Portland, Me., and De La Salle of Newport, R. I., will complete the group—reduced to eight this year.

Coach Leo Connerton's Rhode Island five, as defending champion, will be installed the pre-tourney favorite after its grand showing in the R. I. State tournament. De La Salle has recorded a 14-6 record over the season (including a victory over Westerly that Lt. Com. J. E. McGoff, John B. Oakley, Richard Patykewich and Daniel McCarthy corrected us on), stretching into the semi-finals of the Class A competition.

De La Salle has a pair of nifty scorers in Peté Peterson, 5:11 inch guard, and Gerry Lynch, 5:10½ inch forward. It has height in Ray McPoland and center Bill O'Connor, standing 6:2. The five is complete with nifty George Bryer, a 5:10 inch guard who sets up the plays.

Pairings in this tourney will be announced tomorrow.

Westfield High School's Paul Gallo stole the show at the New England championships although Hillhouse of Ct. again walked off with the cake and spicings—the Fletcher Trophy . . . Gallo's gallant second half rallies put life into a game that had been a walk-away for Hillhouse, up to the final period . . . No doubt, he was the "clutch" player in the tourney on a gallant band of "rally kids" from Westfield.

Hillhouse had its share of honors . . . And it will probably be quite a while before schoolboy fans see another set-shot artist like Joe Macknis, a blond sharpshooter who could sink them from any angle . . . His particular hook shot in the second stanza was the outstanding individual play of the tourney.

Just in case you missed the All Tourney team (and New Bedford was blanked), it had Vin Martley of Pawtucket East and Sam Nakaso of Hillhouse at forwards; Macknis of Hillhouse at center, and Marty Badoian of Nashua, N. H., and Gallo of Westfield at guards . . . Second team choices of the Sportswriters included forwards John Daly of Westfield and Ed McHugh of Bristol; guards Bill Loos of Hillhouse and Kermit Morrison of Springfield, Vt., and center Percy Clark of Springfield, Vt.

Did you happen to notice gridder Dennie Gildea of Everett in the stands? . . . He was lining up a football game for next fall with Hillhouse . . . and, if you know Mr. Gildea, it's a pretty safe bet that the Ct. basketball champions will be on the Crimson Tide's grid slate next September.

Coast Schoolgirl Breaks Swim Mark

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18 (AP)—Muriel Mellon, San Diego high school miss, bettered the national record in the junior women's 100-yard backstroke as she defeated Brenda Helser of Portland, Ore., here. Miss Mellon was timed in 1:10.1—2.3 seconds less than the record.

Tigers' Star Rookie Out for 12 Weeks

LAKELAND, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The world champion Tigers today faced 12 to 14 weeks without the services of rookie outfielder Walter Evers, whose .409 batting average has been one of the few bright spots in Detroit's seven training camp defeats. Evers fractured an ankle in yesterday's 8-3 loss to the Indians.
